NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 19.

(P)—The political machine left by the late Senator Huey P. Long was split wide open today by announcements of Lieutenant-Governor James A. Noe for governor and Wade O. Martin, public service commissioner, for the United States senate, in the January primary.

The announcements dropped like bomb-shells in the ranks over the state and in the statehouse. Governor O. K. Allen, who had said the state ticket would be chosen at a caucus by him, refused to believe they were genuine announcements.

The governor closeted himself in his office with a group of his associates and discussed the announcements feverishly. He said he could not conceive of Noe and Martin taking such steps without his sanction.

Lar Noe and Martin joined the governor's conference. They had driven from New Orleans to Baton Rouge this morning.

Allen J. Ellender, confined to his bed at Houma with a cold, said he had not heard of the announcements and had nothing to say. Ellender had been prominently mentioned as a gubernatorial candidate and until Noe made his statement was regarded as standing about equally as strong in the organization.

Martin virtually had been selected to run for the unexpired term of the late Senator Long but the statements accompanying his announcement indicated he would offer for the regular six year term beginning in January, 1937.

The announcement came after an all-night conference in a hotel attended by Judge John B. E. of the state supreme court, the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, "Share-the-wealth" organizer, Martin Noe and others.

Both Noe and Martin announced they would run on the Long program, including the "Share-the-Wealth" plan. Noe named three

ROME, Sept. 19.—(P)—The Italian press tonight charged England with deliberately wishing war in order to halt Italy's course. One newspaper, the "Gloria D'Italia," asserted that "Italy is already an open menace."

The renewed press campaign came after Naples dispatches had reported the arrival there of submarines from Trieste, which they said had been ordered from their home base because of the heavy British naval concentration in the Mediterranean.

Meanwhile other preparations for war with Ethiopia were in progress. Because of a shortage of steel, municipalities throughout Italy ordered street car tracks not in use torn up and tonight workmen were busy removing them and shipping them to foundries.

Many Rome streets, including historic squares, like the Piazza del Popolo, were torn up in consequence.

Military circles estimated that 1,000,000 men were involved in a royal decree today calling up for new physical examination men of the class of 1901 to 1914 inclusive who previously had been selected for military service.

ROME, Sept. 19.—(P)—Dispatches from Naples today reported the arrival there of 12 Italian submarines from Trieste. This shifting of their base from the upper Adriatic to the Tyrrhenian sea was attributed in the dispatches to the presence of a heavy British fleet in the Mediterranean.

The British fleet was the object of an editorial attack by the newspaper "Il Tevere." Commenting on its activities in the Mediterranean, the paper likened

Big Improvement
Textile Industry
Past Thirty Days

A decided improvement in the business of the textile industry has been noted during the past thirty days according to officials of the Corsicana Cotton Mills and a number of factors are visible that make continuation of the gain highly probable.

The local mill has been operating continuously for several months, although for a time only portions of the mills were operated. For several weeks recently two shifts have been employed to handle rush orders for the "cotton sack" season. Numerous enquiries for prices and orders for heavy goods manufactured at the local plant are being received and several orders have been secured.

Heavy government purchases ranging into the hundreds of million yards of light and heavy goods for sewing room and CCC and army requirements have bolstered the textile markets recently, and large purchases are being made by other groups, local officials reported.

WACO, Sept. 19.—(P)—James E. Lee, 45, a salesman, and his 11-year-old son, Billy Bob, were found shot to death in Lee's locked automobile near Lovers Leap, in Cameron Park, today.

A justice of the peace verdict said Lee shot his son and then himself.

Lee's widow disagreed with the verdict, however, and indicated she would demand a double murder investigation.

Cameron park workmen found the bodies, bullet wounds in both heads.

A pistol was found in the car.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 19.—(P)—C. D. Sturtevant, Chicago grain trader, charged the administration's farm program was an "economic disaster" in an address prepared for delivery before the Grain Dealers National Association today.

He called upon the President to redeem his pledge and retrace his steps in the light of the "fair administrative trial" accorded the experiment.

Sturtevant, chairman of the grain committee on national affairs, gave the record of the AAA before the annual convention of grain men, and then quoted President Roosevelt's letter to Congress of March 16, 1933, transmitting the draft of the bill, in which he wrote:

"I tell you frankly that it is a new and untrod path. If a fair administrative trial of it is made, and it does not produce the hoped for results, I shall be the first to acknowledge it deserves."

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 19.—(P)—Police concluded today that Charles Russell Geary, 42, a Tobyhanna, Pa., farmer, killed his brother and two uncles, and ended his own life in a fight over division of a $30,000 estate.

The bodies of the four were found in the apartment of Orlando Le Van, 60, an employee of the Pennsylvania Railroad, one of the victims of the shooting.

The others who died were Orlando's brother, Benjamin, 55, retired foreman in the Newark department of public works, and John S. Geary, 43, who had lived with Le Van since boyhood.

Orlando's wife, Catherine, died a month ago on a visit to Easton, Pa. She and the Geary brothers' mother were sisters. Orlando's wife held with him joint accounts in three Newark savings banks and stock in a building and loan association, totalling in all about $30,000.

The police believe Charles Geary who showed up in Newark early last night, argued with Orlando over sharing the money.

Early today a man telephoned police headquarters. Patrolman Patrick McNamara answered. "Send police in a hurry to 928 South 20th street," the caller said.

"What's the matter?" asked the startled McNamara.

"There are three murders and a suicide," he replied the man on the phone.

"What do you mean?" asked the policeman.

"I just killed three people," The caller then hung up.

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 19.—(P)—United Spanish war veterans brought their 37th annual encampment to a close here today by electing Scott Leavitt of Great Falls, Mont., as senior vice-commander for the one national ranking office in which there was a contest and selecting Saratoga Springs, N. Y., as the site of the 1936 encampment.

Election formalities included the promotion of Robert S. Cain of Pittsburgh, senior vice-commander, to commander-in-chief, succeeding Leavitt, and Leavitt's successor, Alfred J. Kennedy of New York, former state department commander, was elected junior vice-commander with the position.

Joe H. Jones, assistant United States district attorney, said the cases were the first to be pressed under the new criminal code of the farm administration.

LIQUOR FOR CONSUMPTION ON PREMISES

AUSTIN, Sept. 19.—(P)

—Ten senators today introduced a bill strictly defining and prohibiting an open saloon.

It defined a saloon as "any place where intoxicating liquor is sold, bartered or delivered to be consumed on the premises where sold or on premises accessible thereto, or any public place where intoxicating liquor is permitted to be consumed."

"It will outlaw the saloon," said Senator Clint Small of Amarillo, the author, "and then we can decide between a monopoly or private package sale regulation."

The wet-bloc bill proposing a license system would permit "cocktail bars" and sale of mixed drinks in restaurants and like places.

The senate passed, 19 to 6, a bill recommended by the governor to appropriate $200,000 for a supreme court memorial building, conditioned upon a federal grant of $700,000.

Senators T. J. Holbrook of Galveston and Grady Woodruff of Decatur introduced a delinquent tax collection bill prepared by the late Senator Arthur P. Duggan of Littlefield, who estimated its first year yield at $10,000,000.

Senate and house sponsors planned a conference tomorrow with Tax Commissioner R. B. Anderson to adjust disputed provisions.

DALLAS, Sept. 19.—(P)—Eight farmers were under federal indictment today charging the making of false applications to the farm credit administration for private home loans and alleged fraud in obtaining the loans.

Indicted by the grand jury here yesterday were Joseph D. Pruitt and William O. Elliott of the Lubbock federal court division, and Gaston T. Pruitt, J. L. Griffin, Henry A. Bates, William D. Cupps, Oliver Alan Cupps and Harry F. Shannon, of the Abilene court district.

It was indicated trials would be at Lubbock and Abilene.

Joe H. Jones, assistant United States district attorney, said the cases were the first to be pressed under the new criminal code of the farm administration.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(P)—Government statisticians said today that America's long idle carpenters, bricklayers and other skilled workers are beginning to find jobs in the construction of private homes.

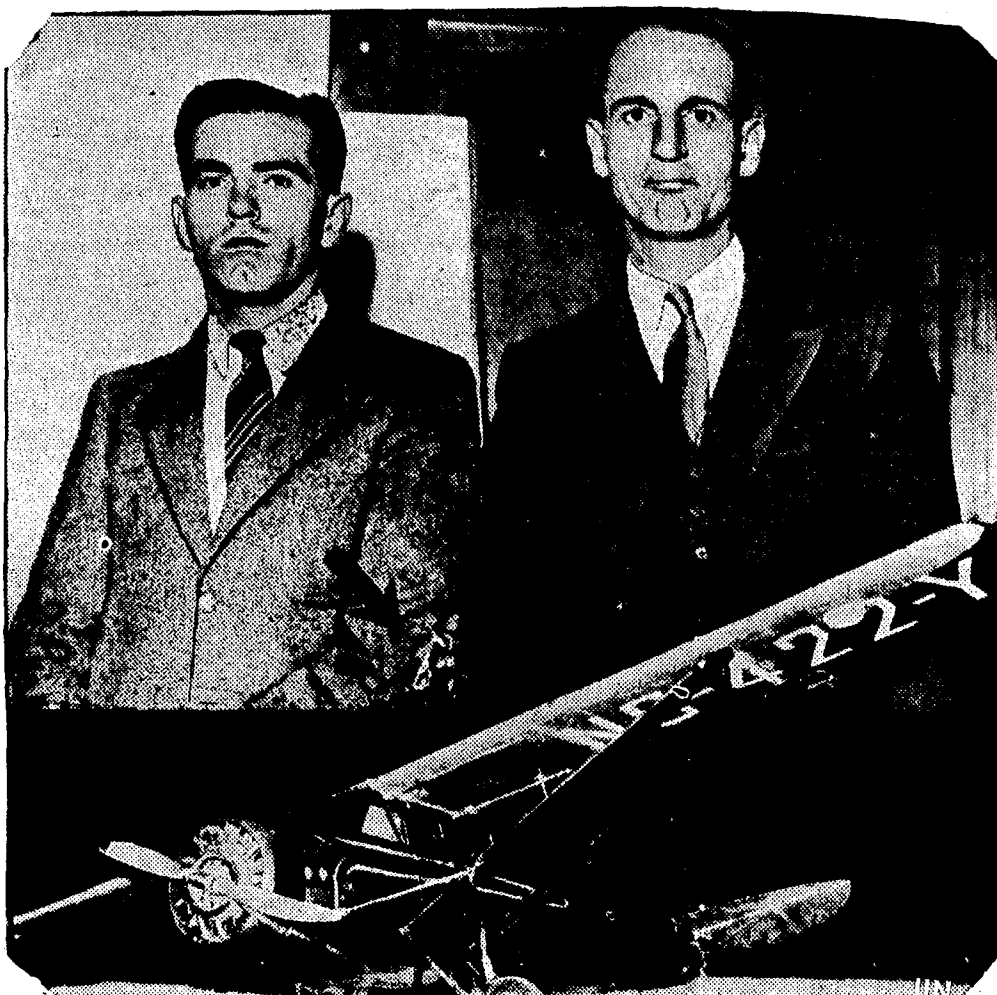

Increased private construction has drawn the attention of economists who have been watching anxiously for improvement of the long-dragging heavy goods industries. They also found other signs of improvement in the vital field, along with some discouraging features.

Isador Lubin, commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics, summarized the situation by saying conditions in the building industry were "very definitely on the rise." He added that "employment in the heavy goods industries generally is improving although it has a great distance to go to reach the level of non-durable goods."

An leading adviser to Emperor Haile Selassie asserted today, "we have made the final move, it is now up to Italy."

The adviser explained that Haile Selassie held no conferences yesterday or today because there was nothing to do except to reconfirm the recommendations of the League of Nations five-power committee for settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, similar to the previous Paris terms.

"By this time the whole world should know our position—No Italian protectorate or special privileges, no territorial concessions to Italy except for cash, no diminution of our sovereignty or independence and no foreign overlordship of any kind," he told the Associated Press.

Italy was understood in informed quarters to be pressing demands for a new agreement.

Automobile
Fatalities
Decrease Here

Automobile fatalities in Corsicana and Navarro county this year have shown a decided decrease as compared with those of 1934, the records of death certificates at the office of L. L. Powell, county clerk, and J. P. Welch, Corsicana city secretary, reveal.

There were seventeen persons killed in automobile accidents in Navarro county during 1934, while thus far in 1935, there have been only two deaths as the result of auto accidents.

There had been twelve fatalities prior to Sept. 19, last year.

These figures are in decided contrast with those registered in many sections of Texas, particularly in the larger cities, and especially in Dallas.

WANT NEW ORLEANS SITUATION EXCLUDED AND AGREEMENT FOR DOCKMEN ONLY

HOUSTON, Sept. 19.—(P)—Steamship operators in Houston and Galveston expressed a willingness today to reopen negotiations for a new wage scale agreement with the International Longshoremen's Association, with the proviso that the New Orleans longshore situation be excluded from consideration and that the agreement cover only dock workers.

In the I. L. A. request for the opening of "orderly negotiations" for a new agreement on Monday, longshoremen asked also an agreement with warehousemen, cotton handlers, checkers and clerks. They also served notice that after October 1 they would refuse to work vessels to or from New Orleans not using I. L. A. labor exclusively.

In a letter to M. J. Dwyer, district head of the I. L. A. at Galveston, Thomas Rice, chairman of the joint labor committee of the Houston and Galveston maritime committees, declared that the Texas operators had no jurisdiction over New Orleans, and that any agreement covering Texas ports, therefore, must exclude New Orleans.

He said any new agreement that is made must cover longshoremen.

STATE CLOSELY SCRUTINIZES
SOCIAL AND POLITICAL VIEWS OF MOONEY IN FREEDOM FIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19.—(P)—The state scrutinized closely today the social and political views of Tom Mooney, convicted bomber of a 1916 preparedness day parade for vindication before California authorities.

Mooney, who shouted yesterday that prosecution witnesses testified falsely at his trial, launched into his beliefs under cross examination at his hearing on a habeas corpus writ.

He was questioned by Assistant State Attorney General William Cleary after relating on direct examination a story of his activities the day of the bombing, a story in which he denied having been within a mile of the fatal scene.

"I am a social revolutionist—one who believes all the wealth of the world should be socialized," the prisoner declared after Cleary had questioned him concerning the International Moulders Union. Mooney has been a member of the union for 33 years, and Cleary asked him whether it advocated overthrow of the government.

"The union is absolutely in control of conservatives," Mooney replied adding his denial that it had any "radical or communistic tendencies."

Frank P. Walsh, Mooney's veteran New York attorney, immediately objected to "trying the cause of labor unions in the court," and Cleary retorted that there were consistent inferences from Mooney's conviction because he was a leader of a faction of "labor radicals."

"These inferences have been carried so far," Cleary said, "as to make it impossible to believe in his innocence."

GENEVA, Sept. 19.—(P)

—Salvador De Madariaga of Spain, chairman of the League of Nations Italo-Ethiopian committee, told that today he believed Ethiopia would accept the committee's plan for a compromise with Italy—but he did not know what Italy might do.

He told his committee members, representing Great Britain, France, Poland and Turkey, that all he was able to say about Italy was that Baron Pompeo Aloisi, that nation's chief delegate, had held many long distance telephone conversations with Premier Mussolini since De Madariaga had given him the plan.

Yesterday, immediately following the receipt of the league plan, an Italian delegate said it was "absolutely unacceptable as a basis for negotiation."

Although previously Baron Aloisi had been expected to go to Rome for a conference with Il Duce, the premier, in Geneva, and Italian sources said this indicated that Mussolini saw no need for a conference, a fact cited as a further substantiation of Italy's objection to the league proposal.

Above all, league delegates centered their attention on the naval situation developing in the Mediterranean, where Italian warships moved to strategic points while Great Britain assembled great naval and aerial fleets there.

Edouard Herriot, former premier of France, stated at a luncheon: "I believe to a country which at one epoch in its history heeded England and learned what it cost."

An Italian spokesman said that a decision on the league compromise now must be made by Premier Mussolini.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(P)—Foreign military observers said tonight a situation was rapidly developing in the Mediterranean where an untoward incident might furnish the tinder for touching off a powder keg spreading far beyond the Italo-Ethiopian dispute.

These observers said they saw a grim and purposeful meaning in the speedy and steady mobilization by Great Britain and Italy of their best ships, airplanes, and troops along the danger point within the Mediterranean and its two entrances at Suez and Gibraltar.

Meanwhile, both governments maintained official silence regarding the significance of their actions as officials of both countries anxiously studied developments.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(P)—An authoritative source asserted today that the British air ministry was building up the Royal Air forces at strategic Mediterranean stations for any eventuality which might arise from the present dispute between Italy and Ethiopia.

At the same time, the British admiralty list showed that the admiralty, having virtually depleted its home fleet to reinforce naval stations in the Mediterranean, now is calling on its American West Indies fleet for additional support.

In contrast with these naval maneuvers, which now have been made more or less public, the heavy air reinforcements—like a precautionary—will be kept secret.

A concentration of fighting, bombing, and observation planes, hinted as having taken place in the vicinity of the Suez Canal, Egypt, Gibraltar, and the Sudan, is expected to be referred to in general terms in a forthcoming announcement by the air ministry.

This announcement, however, is

EARLY REPORT ON TEXAS UNIVERSITY PROJECTS EXPECTED

PWA OFFICIALS WILL PROBABLY DETERMINE FATE WITHIN WEEK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Leon White, University of Texas architect, said today he expected to know within a week whether the public works administration would approve eight projects of the University to cost more than $500,000.

"Several of them, including the $125,000 grant for a negro hospital at Galveston, have been turned down by some agency up there at least once but we have them all in line now," White said. "We will not know definitely whether we will get the money until Secretary Jakes goes over all the hundreds of projects he has before him."

White and Dr. Edward Randall, vice-chairman of the university board of regents, also hope that a $900,000 grant toward construction of a $200,000 children's hospital at Galveston will be approved. A $300,000 loan and grant also is sought for a new women's dormitory at the University Medical School at Galveston.

The largest amount sought is $400,000 for a second unit of the University Memorial Museum near the campus at Austin. Congress has appropriated $300,000 for the 1936 Texas Sesqui-Centennial. A $300,000 allocation for the principal building. Another $184,000 is sought from PWA to help finance the gathering of material and exhibits for the memorial. The state legislature, White said, already has appropriated $225,000 for this purpose.

Additional houses, roads and the like at the university's new McDonald Observatory in the heart of the Davis Mountains in far southwest Texas would be constructed if PWA approved a grant of $26,181. Another application seeks $250,000 for additional home economics work at Austin and the eighth request, for $8,750, would be used for a new animal house at the medical unit in Galveston.

Protest Filed With League On Treatment Jews

GENEVA, Sept. 19.—(AP)—An appeal to the League of Nations assembly against "cruel persecution and defamation of German Jews" was telegraphed today by Dr. Benes, president of the assembly today, by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, president of the committee of Jewish delegations.

Referring to anti-Jewish laws proclaimed Sunday after a session of the Reichstag at Nuremberg, Germany, the appeal said:

"Anti-Jewish legislation in the third Reich represents a regression to medieval policy with regard to Jews, and creates in the heart of the Europe of the twentieth century a new ghetto for the purpose of oppressing and dishonoring the Jewish people."

"By outlawing German Jews, by carrying on systematically anti-Jewish propaganda the world over and by spreading racial theories which imply a negation of the very principles of equality of rights for all peoples and races, the policy of the third Reich destroys the basis of modern civilization and the League of Nations, as the embodiment of the hopes and ideas pursued by the noblest minds of all lands."

result in a more serious development in case of a collective economic boycott against Italy as a penalty for aggression.

Preliminary conversations between some great powers concerning the possibility of applying sanctions against Italy as a penalty for aggression, looked to Premier Mussolini for a final answer to the question—war or peace?

Some delegations believed it might be possible to secure economic sanctions as virtual acts of war and that a naval blockade probably would follow any proclamation of a boycott.

With the league five-power committee's proposal for collective assistance for Ethiopia in the hands of Italy, there were no indications, however, that the talk of possible future sanctions had become generalized.

Sanctions can be discussed officially only by the league council, when and if Italy flouts league recommendations. The council, however, has not yet met. The crisis was still in the conciliatory state.

General Procedure

If Mussolini rejects outright the suggestions made by the committee of five, the council must decide whether to proceed under Article XV of the league covenant.

A complete official report on the conflict must then be made to the council together with a series of recommendations for settlement.

The committee may have even the right to suggest measures of restraint against any nation which rejected its recommendations.

Meanwhile, the situation was considered in league circles to be primarily one between Italy and Great Britain, with Britain taking such obvious precautions that delegates tended to regard the crisis more and more as developing Anglo-Italian tension.

Expect Ethiopia to Accept

Ethiopia's acceptance of the peace proposals was considered virtually certain by league circles, although Emperor Haile Selassie also had the theoretical right to reject the program.

British circles seemed to regard the proposal for collective assistance for Ethiopia as decidedly pro-Ethiopian, and a far more bitter pill for Italy to swallow than the Paris proposals which Mussolini rejected.

"Some described the plan as 'contemptuous' of Italy because it demands that East Africa, and others said the text of the committee's report 'ignored' Italy."

The project was understood generally to consist of two parts,

KILLINGS

Two minutes later radio police broke down the door of the second floor apartment and found the bodies of four men, three of them apvial in the kitchen and the fourth lying on a divan in the sun parlor.

The body of John S. Geary, 42, brother of Charles, was lying near a window of few feet away from Orlando Levan, 60, near a door leading to the living room was Orlando's brother, Benjamin, 55.

Charles Geary was stretched out on a couch in the sun parlor, a sawed off shotgun at his feet. He had been shot at close range through the heart. In his hip pocket police found a loaded .38 caliber revolver.

In a dress in the bedroom police found bankbooks made out in the name of Mrs. Kate Tevan, wife of Orlando. She died three weeks ago after a stroke during visit with relatives at Easton, Pa.

Police calculated the deposits to total $30,000.

Besides Charles' body was his wallet and a note with this inscription:

"In case anything happens to me, notify Mr. Guy Wiley, To-beyhanna, Pa."

"Charles R. Geary, 42, 1001 West Frey, South Sterling, Pa."

Frey is an undertaker. Wiley lives across the street from the Levan summer home, where Charles Geary lived with his wife, as caretaker.

Wiley told Capt. Rowe that John Geary had been adopted by Orlando Levan when John was two years old. John and Charles Geary were sisters. Mrs. Geary died some years ago.

The first confined to general considerations and saying the particular object was to find a basis for conciliation, the second outlining work in assistance for Ethiopia.

The report provided for appointment of a series of foreign advisers to act as heads of various Ethiopia departments, including those of police, finance, communications and general administration.

The document was understood in league quarters to set forth that France and Britain were prepared, in the interest of settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian controversy, to make certain territorial concessions to the East African empire.

It was understood among league leaders, however, that any concessions depended on the success of negotiations.

To serve as a link between the leagues and Ethiopia, a general adviser would be appointed by the league to coordinate the work of the various Ethiopian departments.

The committee arranged to meet later today to receive a report from Chairman Salvador De Madariaga of Spain on his talks with Baron Alois of Italy and Teclé Wewelde of Ethiopia after presenting the plan to them.

Another house group sponsored a resolution to appoint five representatives and five senators to draft emergency pension legislation and make a survey preliminary to recommending a permanent plan to the next legislature.

It was referred to committee. Another group of tax bills to provide revenue for old age pensions and reduce the deficit was offered in the house. They proposed a graduated registration fee on secured notes, an increase in the inheritance tax of about 50 per cent, an increase from two per cent of the value and two cents to six per cent and six cents per barrel on oil, a $1.50 per ton increase on sulphur production, a graduated chain store tax and sharp increases in license fees for racing meets.

The house adopted a resolution to appoint a committee of three to investigate relief administration in Tarrant county. Rep. WORKERS-EMPLOYERS AND EFFORTS FIND AGREEMENT GROUNDS

STEPS TAKEN TO INVESTIGATE THE BURKBURNETT LABOR TROUBLES

BURKBURNETT, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Striking field workers and employers in the northwest field, Okla., apparently had ceased efforts to reach an agreement today as steps were taken to investigate the labor troubles.

Strikers and operators indicated yesterday they were determined not to submit to compromise.

The situation grew more tense when a report of the concentration of Oklahoma policemen at Grandfield, Okla., reached the Texas side. Officers said there had been no attempts at violence and that the strikers resented the sending of officers to the area.

Colonel Charles W. Dalley, superintendent of the state crime bureau of Oklahoma, reported last night that steps had been taken to investigate the trouble. He said the investigation was requested by T. A. Walters, assistant secretary of the department of interior.

Five officers of Tillman county, Oklahoma, made a survey of the field yesterday but refused to admit additional men, saying such a move was unnecessary.

Sheriff Pat Allen and deputies of Wichita County, Texas, received a pledge from the strikers that there would be no violence.

The workers, about 250 of them, walked out Tuesday after employers had refused to meet demands for wage increases and a closed shop.

seeking to graft the existing relief administration setup on the old age pension system. He alleged citizens who sought to complain were met by armed guards, at the Fort Worth relief headquarters and that the state board of control refused to appoint a grievance committee to review the situation.

Eight bills validating bonds and acts of local governing bodies, by which federal grants and loans were sought, were recommended by a senate committee and an afternoon session called to pass them.

Taxation Came to Front on Thursday

AUSTIN, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Taxation came to the fore in the legislature today in the wake of messages by the governor with house leaders planning speedy committee work on numerous revenue bills.

Chairman W. E. Jones of the house revenue and taxation committee scheduled the first hearing tomorrow night on an administration approved graduated chain store tax measure. Sponsors estimated the annual yield at $750,000.

Meanwhile, committees of both houses worked on the wet-bloc liquor control bill proposing taxes variously estimated to produce ultimately between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 annually.

The house liquor traffic committee scheduled hearings Friday and Monday on rival state monopoly proposals.

Committee work was scheduled to start soon, also, on bills for old-age pensions, two of which proposed appropriations of $40,000,000 and $70,000,000, which provided for immediate revenue legislation.

Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston completed preparation of a delinquent tax collection bill started by the late Senator Arthur P. Duggan of Littlefield, who calculated it would yield $10,000,000 in the first year.

Sale of properties on which levies were late and appointment of delinquent tax collectors was proposed. Senator Holbrook was a member of a tax survey committee of which Senator Duggan was chairman.

planks of a platform, "the plan of progress of Huey P. Long, the 'Share-Our-Wealth' platform, and honest business administration of the affairs of the state."

The announcements placed Governor Allen on the spot. Noe claimed he had Allen's endorsement and Smith said in a supplemental statement that "upon hearing an expression on the part of our governor that these men were preferable to him, I readily assured them of my endorsement."

But Governor Allen expressed complete surprise at the announcements last night. Long leaders had said only Governor Allen was authorized to make announcements.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Lieut. Gov. James A. Noe of Monroe today announced his candidacy for governor in January 1937. There have been no announcements for the unexpected term left by Long's assassination.

Elections for both unexpired and full terms are to be held in January.

Both announcements were made after a lengthy conference in a hotel last night with the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, national organizer for Long's Share-Our-Wealth clubs, who had served since the any state administration state "must be pleasing to the share-the-wealth movement."

Smith and Associate Justice John B. Fournet of the state supreme court, another of Long's close associates, issued statements endorsing Noe and Martin.

Noe said in his announcement that his candidacy has been endorsed by Governor O. K. Allen, titular head of the Huey P. Long machine since the senator's death last week.

Justice Fournet said in a statement that Noe's announcement "meets with my hearty approval." He asserted that Martin "is a logical man to succeed my late personal friend, Senator Huey P. Long, for the term in the United States senate beginning in January, 1937."

Smith said: "I am glad that these men have had the courage to be loyal to the principles of our beloved leader, Senator Huey P. Long."

It was announced all members of the military classes from 1901 to 1914, inclusive, previously exempted from military training because of physical defects or other disabilities, will be recalled on October 15 for a second examination. A government spokesman said today the League of Nations committee report for peace in Ethiopia gave no occasion for Italy to change her attitude of pessimism or skepticism.

"The report of the league council's five-power committee, expected to be published shortly, would 'neither be acceptable nor accepted as far as Italy is concerned,'" informed sources declared.

The Emperor for Italian military occupation of Ethiopia as the only means of insuring fulfillment of any future agreements between the two countries.

Hailie Selassie has rejected indignantly this suggestion as a threat to Ethiopia's sovereignty.

Five thousand Ethiopian warriors staged a patriotic demonstration before the Imperial Palace today appealing to the king of kings for rifles and urging him to declare war.

Hailie Selassie pacified them by asserting that only bullies made war while strong men made peace.

"Keep your powder dry, your hearts resolute and your courage high until I call you," he told the warriors.

Lloyd George Predicts War.

BRADFORD, Eng., Sept. 19.—(AP)—David Lloyd George, Great Britain's World War prime minister, said today that a war of aggression was a war of aggression.

"We are within a week or a fortnight of war—a war of aggression," he said.

The aggressive Welshman, addressing a regional conference of the county council for peace and reconstruction, continued:

"It will be as great a war of aggression as the attack of Germany upon Belgium. Quite frankly, I am alarmed. It seems to me that the world is heading for a very great catastrophe."

Over the week-end, Lloyd George attacked the international peacekeepers for hanging back while Italy went ahead with preparations for war. Today he renewed his demand to know why there had been "incomprehensible and quite inexcusable" delays.

TOKYO, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The Tokyo and Osaka stock exchanges stayed open until 6:30 p. m. today—three and one-half hours beyond their usual closing time—in a wild bull market based on the war scare.

Transactions reached record highs, the greatest since the establishment of exchanges in 1878. In the Tokyo market, 1,183,000 shares changed hands; in Osaka the trading was 1,174,000 shares.

At the same time there were popular manifestations of sympathy with Ethiopia in the Italo-Ethiopian crisis.

shore labor only and must cover all vessels in foreign trade, no matter where they load or what type of labor is used to load them.

L. A. officials began negotiations Monday by asking for a wage scale of 85 cents an hour and 16 cents a bale for loading cotton. This scale amounts to an increase of 5 cents an hour and 1 cent a bale over the present wage scale. However, when dickering for a wage agreement started in June, the I. L. A. demanded 95 cents and 20 cents a bale.

The present agreement has been in force for about 15 months and was theoretically concluded on June 30. At that time negotiations failed to agree and the standing set of working conditions was extended for two 15-day periods, and then indefinitely, with the understanding that neither side could conclude the agreement without 15 days notice.

Distict Leader To Confer With Ryan

GALVESTON, Sept. 19.—(AP)—M. J. Dwyer, Gulf coast district president of the International Longshoremen's association, said today he would confer with Joseph P. Ryan of New York, international president, before taking any further action toward reaching an agreement with steamship operators on wages and working conditions.

Negotiations were halted temporarily when operators rejected an I. L. A. proposal to involve the port of New Orleans in the Texas agreement, longshoremen said that after Oct. 1 they would refuse to work vessels coming from New Orleans not using I. L. A. labor exclusively.

Thomas Rice, chairman of the labor committee representing maritime committees of Galveston and Houston, said the operators' refusal was based primarily on the Longshoremen's plan to include New Orleans in the Texas agreement. He said the Texas agreement would concern only Texas ports.

"If the I. L. A. will deal with us on Texas ports only, I believe a simple matter," Rice said. Were it not for this factor, the modified proposal would furnish a basis for reaching a quick settlement."

New Orleans Situation.

Dwyer said that in the past, Texas steamship operators have said low wages in New Orleans were reason for not increasing Texas wages. He said the I. L. A. was willing to sacrifice wages at Texas ports in order to bring about equality with New Orleans.

When the old contract between the I. L. A. and steamship operators expired on June 30, the I. L. A. asked for 95 cents per hour and 20 cents per bale for cotton at Texas ports and at Lake Charles, La., and also sought an agreement for New Orleans.

The message contained no other details as to how the two big salvage tugs which had hauleders on the ship succeeded in dragging her back into deep water.

When the ship struck the reef, she carried 384 passengers and crew. Rescue craft stood by three days before the waters calmed sufficiently for them to take off all but a skeleton force which remained aboard to aid the salvage operations.

It was planned to tow the ship to Miami for two days to give the skeleton crew of 55 a chance to go ashore. Then she will be taken to New York, placed in drydock and reconditioned.

to renew the old agreement for Texas ports only. This scale is 80 cents an hour and 15 cents per bale for cotton. After many conferences, the existing agreement was extended until Sept. 30. This contained the clause that it could be terminated on 15 days notice by either side.

Monday the I. L. A. submitted its modified proposal of 85 cents per hour and 16 cents per bale for cotton. Unions also told operators they would not work ships handled by New Orleans by other than I. L. A. labor.

REVENUE AND TAX LEGISLATION THROWN OPEN BY GOVERNOR

RECITES NEEDS FOR MORE FUNDS PAY STATE EXPENSE IN SPECIAL MESSAGE

AUSTIN, Sept. 19.—(P)—Tax bills to pay old-age pensions and liquidate the state deficit were introduced in the house today on the heels of a special message from Governor Allred opening the field of taxation.

Bills to levy a graduated license fee on chain stores, increase the natural gas tax, legal and tax pool halls, permit cities and counties to levy one-half the state occupation tax on utilities and to levy a utility gross receipts tax were included.

Bills to tax pipelines, increase the oil and sulphur levy and tap other sources of revenue were under preparation.

Representative Walter Jones of Jordan, granted the governor's request for the entire subject, said he would call his committee soon to consider the bills.

The administration chain store tax carried a levy of one percent on the gross receipts of chain stores, graduated from $750 to $1,000,000.

Another bill proposed a maximum of $1,000. The governor's message on chain store taxes was appended in the bill.

A bill to slash the beer tax in half and sharply reduce beer dealers' license fees was introduced as a compromise measure.

The house adjourned until tomorrow after a stern warning by Speaker Coke Stevenson that speed was necessary if the legislature intended to complete the program of tax measures.

A dozen bills were introduced in the senate, including measures to provide old age pensions and fix salaries for officers and judges from a fee basis.

Many local bills were filed in each house.

Old Age Pension Bill. The senate's first old age pension bill, by Gordon Burns of Huntville and Claude Westfield of Dallas, proposed a $40,000,000 appropriation for the biennium ending Aug. 31, 1936, to pay $15 monthly to 200,000 pensioners.

Monthly pension bills were introduced in the house, one of which would appropriate $700,000. Each would pay $15 monthly.

Salary schedules proposed by Senator Tom DeBerry of Dallas for officers removed from a fee basis were tentative. Generally, salaries of officers in larger counties would be reduced, and those in smaller counties raised slightly, as compared with maximum fees now allowed.

Minimums and maximums were prescribed, between which commissioners' salaries could be set.

Maximums ranged from $2,400 to $5,500 and minimums from $1,500 to $2,400.

Separate brackets were provided for counties with 20,000 population and for other officers whose removal from a fee basis was optional with commissioners' courts.

AUSTIN, Sept. 18.—(P)—Governor Allred threw open the whole field of revenue and tax legislation in a special message to the legislature today.

He submitted the subject of revenue and taxation together with old age pensions, calling on the legislature to devise means of meeting the added expense and the existing deficit.

"This administration inherited a tremendous deficit," Governor Allred said. "The rural aid appropriation was increased $2,000,000 by the regular session of the legislature and $3,000,000 was voted for the Texas Centennial."

"In addition, Texas must now begin the retirement of the $20,000,000 bond issue voted in 1933 for relief purposes. These added financial responsibilities, together with the existing deficit, require submission of revenue and taxation to this legislature may devise ways and means to provide necessary finances."

The governor recommended immediate enactment of "a real estate chain store tax," a sulphur tax, a tax on pipelines and a selective luxury tax and some corrective measures in franchise taxes advocated during the last session.

Local Bills Submitted. He also submitted a number of local bills and a bill appropriating $200,000 for construction of a state courts building conditioned on obtaining federal assistance.

"It is the duty of this legislature to determine what pension plan is best suited and most practicable under existing conditions to Texas," Governor Allred said.

"In determining this problem it behooves the legislature to consider not alone the immediate results, but as well the far-reaching effects which such a policy may have. It is to be remembered always that this pension plan, when begun, may be expected long to continue."

The governor said the chain store tax was a plank in the platform of the state Democratic party, that local merchants were entitled to "a fair chance of sustaining themselves" and the tax "can constitute a just and substantial contribution to needed state revenues."

Should Pay More. He said the sulphur companies had amassed "astounding" profits from a negligible investment and should make a far more substantial contribution to the cost of government.

In accordance with a promise to the late Senator Arthur P. Dugan of Littlefield, he asked careful consideration of tax delinquencies and suggested study of tax changes recommended by the senate finance committee at the last session.

These tax suggestions have been made not to confine the liberations of this body to these specific measures alone," he concluded, "but are to be considered as cumulative of such tax measures as the individual members may see fit to support in seeking to solve this comprehensive problem of taxation."

"We must be mindful that Texas has got to have a great deal of money in order to pay for its added activities."

The senate confirmed all recess appointments submitted by Governor Allred, including three commissioners of public safety, banking commissioner, secretary of state, state auditor, and three members of the prison board.

Lufkin Man Named Assistant Chief Public Safety

AUSTIN, Sept. 18.—(P)—Homer Garrison, Jr., of Lufkin today was appointed assistant director of the Texas department of public safety.

Garrison will be second in command to L. G. Phares, acting director.

Garrison, 34, became a peace officer 15 years ago, serving as Angellina county deputy sheriff. He was chief deputy three years. His father has been district clerk in Angellina county 18 years.

He will be in charge of the officers' training school, having conducted the schools two years. Garrison trained New Mexico's highway patrol when it was organized.

For the past two years he has been senior captain in charge of the Houston district.

This book was the property of the late Mrs. Moore Murdock, president and organizer of the first women's auxiliary chapter in Texas, and who died in San Antonio in 1932.

Delegates also were considering invitations from three cities for the 1936 encampment. The cities were Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Atlantic City, N. J., and Wheeling, W. Va., with Saratoga Springs favored as the probable selection.

building industry is beginning to absorb its unemployed."

It warned, however, that there was still a long way to go. Even in 1930, when employment was higher than in any other recent year, it was only 88 per cent of normal.

A survey of available government figures showed that the heavy industries tended generally upward, but were spotty. Employment in July showed an index of 89.3 per cent of the 1923-25 average, as compared with 87.4 a year ago, and 86.9 a year before.

Some industries were declared back to "normal" during the summer, with agriculture, implements makers and automobile manufacturers employing more than during the 1923-25 period, but lumber mills were averaging less than half the workers, and railroad repair shops were at almost as low a level.

Public safety commissioners were Albert Sidney Johnson of Dallas, George Cottingham of Houston and Ernest Goens of Tyler; banking commissioner, Irvin McCleary of Gatesville; auditor, J. W. Miller of Huntsville; secretary of state, R. B. Stanford of Waco, and prison board members, Jos. Wearden of Victoria (re-appointment); Mrs. Charlotte A. Feagie of Houston and R. W. Miller of Huntsville.

The senate speedily passed, 25 to 2, a bill to conform the Brazos river conservation and reclamation district act to federal requirements. Sponsors said it was necessary to obtain final allotment of $30,500,000 to the project which Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, had approved.

It was the first important bill passed by either house.

The bill would authorize issuance of negotiable bonds on tax diversion funds, permit use of revenues to repay loans from any agency; permit use of transient labor, and authorize tax diversion in proportionately less amounts in events less than $30,000,000 federal funds asked were allotted.

Committee Hearings On Liquor Control AUSTIN, Sept. 18.—(P)—Advocates of rival liquor control plans prepared today for committee hearings as the legislature tackled other two topics submitted by Governor Allred.

Senator Tom DeBerry of Bogota completed a bill fixing salaries for officers removed from the fee basis by a constitutional amendment of which he was author.

Meanwhile, Senator Albert Stone of Brenham asked for early committee action on a revised bill to alter the Brazos river conservation and reclamation district act in conformity to federal requirements for a $30,000,000 grant.

Hearings on a license system liquor control bill drafted by wet leaders were underway by the senate state affairs committee. Committee members planned to hear other interests after Elbert Hooger, who helped write the measure, completed an explanation.

With three rival plans before it, the house liquor traffic committee scheduled its initial hearing tomorrow. It also would open the license system bill, identical to that offered in the senate.

Friday it would consider a state monopoly plan offered by Rep. C. E. Nicholson of Fort Neches, and Monday another state dispensary system bill proposed by Rep. George Moffett of Chillicothe.

The first liquor legislation to reach the house floor on a committee report would authorize charters for corporations to manufacture, distill and rectify spirits.

It was approved 10 to 1.

HON. L. A. JOHNSON IS SPEAKER BEFORE MEN'S BROTHERHOOD

RESUME OF RECENT SESSION OF CONGRESS IS GIVEN BY LOCAL REPRESENTATIVE

Hon. Luther A. Johnson, Corsicana congressman, delivered the principal address at the first fall meeting of the Men's Brotherhood of the First Methodist church in the religious educational building of the church Tuesday evening.

Mr. Johnson gave a resume of the vast amount of legislation that was passed during the recently closed 74th session of congress and recalled a number of interesting sidelights pertaining to that session.

Members of the Young Men's Bible class had charge of the program's arrangement, and O. F. Allen, president of the class was toastmaster. Boyce Martin, president of the Brotherhood, presided.

Rev. C. Raymond Gray, presiding elder of the Corsicana district Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and H. W. Richardson, executive secretary of the church, were appointed by President Martin as the program committee for the October meeting.

After the introduction of guests, Mr. Allen was introduced, who in turn presented Miss Mary Love Ferguson, who played three numbers as accordion solos.

Her selections were "The Rose in a Meadow of Popular Times," including an encore, the popular Russian folk song, "Dark Eyes." Leeland Stanford Lee, Jr., was next presented by Mr. Allen, and sang a medley of popular tunes, including "I'm in the Mood for Love," and "Thrills," and another group including "When I Grow Too Old to Dream" and "Moonlight and Roses."

Mr. Johnson was accompanied by Miss Georgia Ruth Pollock. Miss Pollock was called upon by Mr. Allen to give a piano solo, and played "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes from the picture, "Roberta."

Speaker introduced Charles T. Banister, assistant teacher of the Young Men's Bible class, made a few remarks and then Clifford E. Jester, teacher of the class, introduced Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Johnson pointed out in opening that the last session of congress was the longest session in a number of years—probably the longest since the World war. It convened on January 3, and closed seven months 23 days later, on August 6.

Mr. Johnson said the "lame duck" session had not been passed previously.

He pointed out that it was the first time that men elected in November had taken over their legislative duties in January, because under the "lame duck" arrangement, congressmen took office 13 months after their election.

"We have seen the new system function, and I think that the 'lame duck' session was unwise," he said, "we will have longer sessions under the new system. Under the old year and a long session on the even year. Now, neither session has any limit," Mr. Johnson explained.

He voiced the sentiment of several congressmen regarding their views upon the merits and demerits of the two systems.

Mr. Johnson explained that as a general rule the filibuster is used more extensively in the senate, but it takes on various forms in the house, where speakers are limited to one hour or less.

Regarding the work completed at the 74th session of congress, Mr. Johnson said: "This session was the longest session in years and passed more constructive legislation. Approximately 450 public laws and a like number of private laws were passed. This legislation was a part of a program that was designed by the administration to complete the work of bringing the United States out of the depression," Mr. Johnson went on.

Almost Completed. He recalled that the 73rd congress did much to bring an end to the depression, but much of the work done at that time was of a temporary nature, and did not cover the entire field. President Roosevelt wanted to be covered. According to the speaker, the 74th congress left little legislation for the next congress, and in a large measure brought about the "breathing spell" for business which President Roosevelt desired.

Mr. Johnson pointed out that many errors were made. Mr. Johnson went on, "but the constructive legislation that was passed helped to end the depression, and will surely prevent the recurrence of another one."

Mr. Johnson quoted from an editorial in the Philadelphia "Record" a Liberal paper, which said the legislative program of the 74th session of congress will have far-reaching influence, and that as a whole, the 74th congress was a "people's" congress, where human rights took precedent over property rights.

Two Pieces of Legislation. The Corsicana congressman recalled incidents pertaining to two pieces of legislation in which he was particularly interested. One was securing $3,000,000 for the Texas Centennial, and the other was the neutrality bill.

Regarding the latter bill, Mr. Johnson said for the past two years congress has not been interested in foreign affairs, but because war clouds gathered over Europe and it looks as though a part of the Old World will be in arms before another session of congress, we passed the neutrality bill."

He declared that the two pieces of legislation were of great importance. One school wanted legislation to leave to the discretion of the president the decision of what to do in case of war, and the other wanted a flat neutrality statute to apply to every nation alike.

The neutrality bill, the representative explained, was only temporary and would expire on Feb. 29, 1936. Until that time, he went on, if two countries go to war, the president can declare an embargo on goods being sold or shipped to either nation participating in the fighting, or on any neutral nation, that might transfer the arms to one of the belligerent nations.

Another part of the neutrality bill specifies that manufacturers of arms or ammunition must be registered with the national government, and then secure a permit to ship their wares. Another division of the neutrality bill specifies that it is unlawful for any American vessel to convey arms to other vessels, still another states that no vessel, either foreign or American, can leave an American harbor with a consignment of arms or ammunition.

In closing, Mr. Johnson declared: "The signing of the Armistice ended the actual hostilities of the World war, but it in no measure stopped or allayed the suffering of individual army, navy and marine corps uniforms of 1898 will lend their color to the spectacle."

Uniformed bands, drum, fife and bugle corps, drill teams, together with individual army, navy and marine corps uniforms of 1898 will lend their color to the spectacle.

NATIONAL COMMANDER OF SPANISH-AMERICAN VETERANS GIVES INSTRUCTIONS

WORLD'S SERIES TO OPEN IN AMERICAN LOOP CITY OCT 2

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—(P)—The 1935 World Series will start in either Detroit or New York on Wednesday, October 2, it was decided today at a meeting presided over by Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball.

Landis decided that the series opener would be played in the city of the American league pennant winner. Detroit now holds a commanding lead over the second place New York Yankees.

Although it was the turn of the National league to have the opening game, the National league officials waived this privilege. It was explained that the National league pennant it would be impossible to accommodate the world's series crowds on that date, as a big convention will be in the city.

The National league city will be either Chicago, St. Louis or New York, entering the stretch with a spread of four and a half games.

The following schedule for a seven-game series was agreed upon. First two games, American league city; next three games, National league city; sixth and seventh games, National league city.

The admission prices will be the same as prevailed last year. $6.00 for box seats; $5.50 for reserved grandstand seats; $3.50 for general admission. $1.00 for the bleachers.

In event the opposing teams are both Western clubs, such as Chicago and Detroit, the entire series will be played on consecutive days.

If the series is between an Eastern and a Western team, one day will be taken off to permit transportation of the players.

Mr. Johnson said for the past two years congress has not been interested in foreign affairs, but because war clouds gathered over Europe and it looks as though a part of the Old World will be in arms before another session of congress, we passed the neutrality bill."

Until that time, he went on, if two countries go to war, the president can declare an embargo on goods being sold or shipped to either nation participating in the fighting, or on any neutral nation, that might transfer the arms to one of the belligerent nations.

Another part of the neutrality bill specifies that manufacturers of arms or ammunition must be registered with the national government, and then secure a permit to ship their wares. Another division of the neutrality bill specifies that it is unlawful for any American vessel to convey arms to other vessels, still another states that no vessel, either foreign or American, can leave an American harbor with a consignment of arms or ammunition.

In closing, Mr. Johnson declared: "The signing of the Armistice ended the actual hostilities of the World war, but it in no measure stopped or allayed the suffering of individual army, navy and marine corps uniforms of 1898 will lend their color to the spectacle."

Uniformed bands, drum, fife and bugle corps, drill teams, together with individual army, navy and marine corps uniforms of 1898 will lend their color to the spectacle.

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 18.—(P)—Three thousand United Spanish War veterans cheered today when ordered by their national commander-in-chief, Judge Leon McCord of Montgomery, Ala., to "become militant in your activities against those enemies of your country who are boring from within the heart of the ship."

"There are many enemies of this country," Commander McCord declared, "who would like to see that flag, pointing to an American flag on the auditorium stage, "go down and be replaced by the red flag of communism."

"As your commander-in-chief," he ordered, "I command you to become militant in your activities against these enemies of your country."

Commander McCord's address, which opened the first of the important business sessions of the 35th annual national encampment, preceded the formal nominations of officers for the coming year.

The nominations left but one of the ranking national officers in doubt, and this will be decided in early morning by ballot tomorrow.

Robert S. Cain of Pittsburgh, present senior vice-commander, was nominated without opposition for the office of national commander-in-chief and will be elected by acclamation.

Alabama, when called upon for nominations, yielded to the department of Pennsylvania, and Cain was nominated by C. C. Clonnan, past department commander of that state.

Mrs. Irma Hill Vogel of Pontiac, Ill., will head the auxiliary. She was nominated without opposition today.

Mrs. Vogel, who will succeed Mrs. Anna Nagle of Boston, has been national senior vice-president the past year.

Three others also are assured of office as they were nominated without opposition. They were Mrs. Martha B. Hart of Bayonne, N. J., national junior vice-president, nominated for national senior vice-president; Mrs. Maude Coles Whitlock of Orting, Wash., national patriotic instructor, nominated for national chaplain, and Mrs. Jesse Booth Perry of Glencoe, Ill., a past national president, nominated for national judge advocate.

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 18.—(P)—Echoes of the days of '98, when cheering thousands paid them homage as they marched off to find death or glory in Cuba, will resound again in the ears of more than 3,000 United Spanish War veterans this afternoon when they march through San Antonio's downtown streets in their annual encampment parade.

Uniformed bands, drum, fife and bugle corps, drill teams, together with individual army, navy and marine corps uniforms of 1898 will lend their color to the spectacle.

Parade Main Feature Of Wednesday Session

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 18.—(P)—Spanish-American war veterans were ready to march again today.

The average age of the heroes of the Cuban campaign, the Philippine insurrection and the Boxer rebellion being 62, the parade, high point of the veterans' national encampment, was planned as a short march through the downtown district.

The fife, drum and bugle corps from the Los Angeles camp and the band from Pittsburgh, Pa., were joined by local bands to furnish popular airs of '98 for the march.

Business sessions also were on the program.

Electoin of Robert S. Cain of Pittsburgh, Pa., senior vice-commander-in-chief, to the office of commander-in-chief was assured, since there were no other nominations.

Ralph Edmunds of Idaho Falls, Idaho, junior vice-commander, and Scott Leavitt, of Great Falls, Mont., staged a hot campaign for the senior vice-commandership.

Reunions were the order of the day yesterday with the Rough Riders, Texas' volunteer infantry, the Eighth Army Corps Association, the Fourth Texas volunteer infantry, the naval and military order of the Spanish-American war, and the Thirty-Third Infantry.

Arnold Deats of Austin was elected president and Judge M. O. Flowers of Lockhart, Texas, president, on the First Texas Volunteers.

HOOVER CONDEMNS LOSS OF FREEDOM THROUGH NEW LAWS

FORMER PRESIDENT OUT-
SPOKEN AGAINST TREND
TOWARD DICTATORSHIPS

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Sept. 17.—(P)—Former President Herbert Hoover asserted in his address here today that some activities of the federal government "are of the same sort of first sappings of human rights that have taken place in other lands."

"Liberty never dies from direct attack," Mr. Hoover declared at the conclusion of 20 years' experience in serving his country at home and abroad dealing "with the backwash of war and revolution."

"No one will dare rise tomorrow and say he is opposed to the bill of rights," he said. "Liberty dies from the encroachment and disregard of its safeguards. Its destruction can be no less potent from ignorance or desire to find shortcuts to jump over some immediate pressure."

"In our country, abdication of its responsibilities and powers by congress to the executive, the repression by the government of its obligations, the centralization of authority into the federal government at the expense of local government, the building up of huge bureaucracies, the coercion or intimidation of citizens, are the same sort of first sappings of safeguards of human rights that have taken place in other lands. Here is the cause of anxiety and concern to the thinking citizens of the United States."

Vital principles of American liberty are embodied in the constitution of the United States. Mr. Hoover told an exposition audience in his speech, which he defined as non-partisan and non-political.

"Our constitution is not alone the working plan of a great federation of states under representative government. There is embedded in it also the vital principles of the American system of liberty. That system is based upon certain inalienable freedoms and protections which not even the government may infringe and which we call the bill of rights."

"It does not require a lawyer to interpret those provisions. They are as clear as the ten commandments."

Men throughout the world, he declared, are in despair, "surrendering their freedom for false promises of economic security." He branded as false the idea that sacrifice of personal freedom can add to the economic efficiency, gain economic security, "find a single job" or "give a single assurance in old age."

The truth of this, he asserted, has been tested by practical experience "under the American system."

Asserting that "always groups of audacious men in government or out will consolidate privilege against their fellows," Mr. Hoover termed the "bill of right" portion of the constitution "the invisible sentinels which guard the door of every home from invasion of coercion, of intimidation and fear."

Herding is the expression of the spirit of men who would be forever free."

A shaft aimed at the growing centralization of governmental powers was contained in a declaration that "liberty is safe only by a division of powers and upon local self government."

After declaring "liberty comes alone and lives alone where the hard-won rights of men are held inalienable," he asserted:

"The nation seeks for solution of many difficulties. These solutions can come alone through the constructive forces which arise from the spirit of free men and women."

"The purification of liberty from abuses, the restoration of confidence in the rights of men, from which came the re-ignition of the dynamic forces of initiative and enterprise, are alone the methods through which these solutions can be found and the purpose of American life assured."

In perhaps the most outspoken words the former president has used since he left the White House he expressed his scorn of

Small Craft Seek Shelter Thursday On Atlantic Coast

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 19.—(P)—Small craft along the Atlantic coast took to short today as the weather bureau here warned of a "slight disturbance" which moved northeasterly off the Carolinas.

Walter J. Bennett, senior meteorologist, said the disturbance brought no more than a "squally condition" and had not reached the proportions of a storm. There was no indication, he said, of increased intensity.

Bureau observers said the winds passed over Florida and headed in to the Atlantic. Highest velocity reported from ships at sea was 34 miles an hour.

The fruits of revolution abroad.

"Whether it be fascist Italy, Nazi Germany, Communist Russia, or their lesser followers," he said, "the result is the same."

"Freedom of speech is suppressed. The press is censored and distorted with propaganda. The right of criticism is denied. Men go to jail or the gallows for honest opinion."

"There is no right in one's savings or one's own home which the government need respect."

"Here is a form of servitude, of slavery—slipping back toward the middle ages."

The former president said that even in America there are many, honest in their beliefs, the freedom of the individual cannot be maintained in a machine age.

"Even in America," he said, "where liberty blazed brightest and by its glow shed light on all the others, it is besieged from without and challenged from within. Many, in honest belief, hold that we cannot longer accommodate the growth of science, technology and mechanical power to the bill of rights and our form of government."

"With that I do not agree. Men's inventions cannot be of more value than men themselves. But it would be better that we sacrifice something of economic efficiency than to surrender these primary liberties. In them lies a spiritual right of men."

In another instance, he said, "those who proclaim that by the machine age there is created an irreconcilable conflict in which liberty must be sacrificed should not forget the battles for these rights over the centuries, for let it be remembered that in the end, these are enduring principles which spring from the souls of men. We imagine conflict not because the principles of liberty are unworkable in a machine age, but because we have not wakened them conscientiously or have forgotten their true meaning."

"The dynamic forces which sustain economic security and progress in human comfort lie deep below the surface. They reach to those human impulses which are watered alone by freedom. The initiative of men, their enterprise, the inspiration of thought, flower in it only in the security of these rights."

Along similar lines, he also said: "Wherever in the world the system of individual liberty has been sustained, mankind has been better clothed, better housed, has had more leisure. Above all men and women have had more self-respect. They have been more generous and of finer spirit."

AUTUMN MANEUVERS IN NORTH SEA OFF AS FLEET IN SOUTH

MAJOR FIGHTING SHIPS OF ENGLAND CONCENTRATED IN MEDITERRANEAN AREA

By CHARLES F. NUTTER,
Associated Press Foreign Staff.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(P)—Authoritative sources indicated today that an official announcement by the air ministry of a recent concentration of British aviation reinforcements in the Mediterranean area are expected soon.

This expectation came close on the heels of an official disclosure by the admiralty that the regular autumn maneuvers of the navy in the North sea have been indefinitely postponed—with Britain's major fighting ships in the Mediterranean.

The exact nature of the air ministry's communique was not predicted, but authorities in a position to know said they expected it to confirm reports that royal airforce squadrons had been concentrated in Malta, Egypt, and elsewhere in the Mediterranean sector.

What remains of the British home fleet now is concentrated off Portland.

An admiralty spokesman said no date had been set for the maneuvers off Scotland and added it was dubious if they would be held at all "in view of the circumstances."

Between 125 and 150 British warships today patrolled the Mediterranean in movements which authorities frankly labeled as "precautionary."

British officials, however, were quick to deny there was anything as dubious as the government's action in assembling this fleet during the present strained relations between Italy and Ethiopia, especially in view of the presence of numerous Italian men-of-war in ancient Rome's "Mare Nostrum."

Public kept in ignorance. Subjects of the British crown today received their first intimation of the extensive naval movements which the American public has known several days. Britons were kept in ignorance of the fleet transfer through a voluntary censorship by the British press.

The admiralty persisted in describing the ship movements as "routine," and "in accordance with previous arrangements."

A Downing street official asserted there is nothing to justify any assumption that the Mediterranean maneuvers were being made in anticipation of an outbreak of Anglo-Italian hostilities.

The bulk of the home fleet which is not actually in the vicinity of the Suez canal—the vital channel through which all Italian forces and war equipment has passed—has been quietly assembled at Gibraltar to act as a backstop to the Mediterranean fleet.

Official Statement. Concerning a war-like construction placed on the ship movements abroad, a Downing Street official said: "There is nothing whatever to justify any such sensational observation."

"The movements are simply precautionary in view of the situation, and there is nothing provocative in them," he said. "Italy must be fully aware of what has been going on, and there has been no protest or representations. No official or unofficial indication has been given the British government that Italy regards the movements as unfriendly or unjustified."

"It is most incredible to place such an interpretation on the naval movements."

The possibility that the voluntary censorship which has kept the British public in the dark concerning the ship movements would be lifted was noted at Whitehall.

Army War Games. Fifty thousand British troops on maneuvers gave England a foretaste of how quickly hostilities could follow a declaration of war.

The soldiers were surprised yesterday by the general staff's sudden decision to advance by six hours the signal for the opening of the biggest war games known to Britain in a decade.

At the zero hour, the opposing armies of "Eastland" and "Westland"—imaginary states created by military authorities for the maneuvers—were 30 miles apart.

Despite the element of surprise, opposing outposts of the mechanized armies faced one another across a narrow strip of country within an hour of the declaration of "hostilities."

Armored cars seized strategic points such as crossroads and bridges, and light tanks followed up in support.

Part of Fleet Leaves Gibraltar. GIBRALTAR, Sept. 18.—(P)—The 2nd and 6th destroyer flotillas of the British navy, leaving two destroyers behind, sailed from here unexpectedly today for an undisclosed destination.

Reports circulated that the great battleship Nelson and the battle cruiser Repulse was expected to arrive here shortly.

The two flotillas arrived here yesterday after a speedy run from England in the company of the battle cruisers Hood and Renown and the 2nd cruiser squadron.

These battle cruisers and cruisers still were in the harbor today and it was reported they would stay indefinitely.

HOBSON PREDICTS UNITED STATES IN WORLD-WIDE FIGHT

SAYS AMERICA BE ENGAGED
AGAINST THE AUTOCRATIC
FORCES OF ENTIRE WORLD

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 19.—(P)—Rear Admiral Richmond Pearson Hobson, the outstanding hero of the Spanish American war, in a prophetic speech today before the assembly of the annual United States War Veterans' encampment declared he foresees the United States in armed struggle with the autocratic forces of the world.

The admiral said the struggle will be between autocracy as represented by communism, fascism and imperial Japan, against constitutional democracy, as represented by the United States.

"They will give no quarter and we likewise shall give none," he declared.

He urged that the United States prepare for such a struggle.

"America should first control the air and sea from the mid-Atlantic to the mid-Pacific ocean," he said. "And we should iron out all internal difficulties."

He urged that labor and capital settle all their disputes "so we can go into the production of great wealth which will be a weapon in our battle with communism and state socialism."

"Germany, Italy and Russia with millions of men are ready for war," he said. "We are almost totally unprepared."

"Communism and state socialism are getting in their biggest blows right now," he warned.

"Communism's paid hirelings are in our schools, churches, in every organization, civil, military and fraternal all over the country," he charged. "Like a bunch of rats they are gnawing at the

TRANSFER BRITISH FLEET TO GIBRALTAR WAS PRECAUTIONARY

LONDON, Sept. 17.—(P)—An authoritative British source tonight described the transfer of almost the entire British home fleet to Gibraltar and the Mediterranean as "precautionary."

This disclosure came shortly after the cabinet ministers who virtually make up the imperial defense council had met at 10 Downing Street in answer to the summons of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin.

They were in session one and one-half hours, and it was understood they considered general empire policies in view of the increasingly dangerous situation engendered by the Italo-Ethiopian crisis.

The British public was in the dark concerning the movement of the great ships of the mightiest naval power. No news of the ships transfer to strategic points appeared in the press.

It was explained authoritatively that the situation now existing in the Mediterranean—where the Italian navy incidentally is holding maneuvers and through which thousands of Fascist soldiers are being moved to East Africa—makes it mandatory for the British government to take precautionary steps.

These steps, it was affirmed, were not designed to represent a threat to Premier Mussolini and his followers. Although it was added that they could not fail to impress him with the interest with which Great Britain regards that sector of the world.

ship of state and I call on you to bring out the fumigation squad."

Admiral Hobson was the leader of the intrepid band which sank the Merrimac in Santiago harbor entrance in a futile effort to bottle up the Spanish fleet.

THREE JUDGE COURT GRANTS INJUNCTION AGAINST RAIL BODY

HOUSTON, Sept. 19.—(P)—A temporary injunction restraining the Texas Railroad Commission from refusing tenders for removal of oil to the Lone Star Refining company was granted today by a three judge federal court consisting of Judges T. M. Kennerly, Duval West and J. C. Hutcheson, Jr.

Russell Allen, attorney for the Lone Star, told the court his clients are being required by the railroad commission to have 127,000 barrels of oil in storage at all times, refusing permission to remove either the oil or its products.

Assistant Attorney General Dick Holt made a motion to dismiss the petition.

William R. Harrell of Dallas, associated with Allen as counsel for the Lone Star, said the company had 60,000 barrels of oil in earthen pits which it purchased from the state for $10,500 and that this oil has been tied up by the railroad commission.

Judge Hutcheson overruled the motion for dismissal.

"We have never heard that the railroad commission has authority to pass laws," said Judge Hutcheson in granting the temporary injunction.

One of the attorneys asked the court to put the temporary injunction in such form as to require the railroad commission to issue the tenders, but Judge Hutcheson refused.

"If the railroad commission does not grant the tenders, we'll cite them for contempt," said Judge Hutcheson.

STILL UNEMPLOYED

To evidences on every side of improving business and industry, the unemployment statistics of the National Industrial Conference Board present a startling contrast. The Board's latest figures deal with the month of July. They show that in July, there were 10,015,000 unemployed workers in the United States, an increase of 2.7 per cent over June, 1935, and of 1.9 over July, 1934.

This is nothing to be pessimistic about, but it is a fact which needs pretty serious consideration. It reminds us of the prediction of the Technocrats that even when boom times return there would still remain a great horde of unemployed workers.

What is to be done about them? No nation has found the answer yet. There is general agreement that a permanent dole is utterly undesirable, and that the opportunity to be self-supporting is what every intelligent worker wants. But how the dole is to be avoided and honest jobs provided is still a riddle to most of us.

COLD CURE.

Medical researchers in New York have announced a vaccine, taken in capsules with a little water, which doesn't necessarily "cure" colds but discourages them. Four hundred patients hitherto subject to frequent colds, while systematically taking these capsules, are said to have reduced their susceptibility about 70 per cent. Making allowances for a mild season, the scientific observers find an immunity of nearly one-half.

The vaccine is prepared from bacteria found in the human throat, including those of pneumonia, influenza, streptococci and catarrh.

The same results have been obtained by other experimenters by using ultraviolet light in the nose and throat, thereby setting up resistance by developing "antibodies."

ATTRACTING ATTENTION

The trouble with American women, according to a fashionable dressmaker of Paris and New York, is that they all try to dress alike.

"Now we of France," she says, "we strive to make men—and other women—turn their heads to look at us. We are not afraid to wear things that are startling."

It is absurd, to be sure, for a lot of women to dress as much alike as a flock of birds. That is, if they want to be looked at individually. When they all wear the same kind of dresses or bathing suits, and tilt their hats over the right eye at the same angle, and use the same rouge and lipstick, or paint their fingernails and toenails the same bright red, they cease to attract separate notice.

Many women, though, may dress in current style, even to details, to avoid attracting special attention. That's what nearly all men do—or say they do.

One of the tragedies of stage life is that juvenile actors grow up. A talented boy actor recently had to quit at the age of 50.

If people won't quit the dole for useful jobs any other way, we might try prohibiting 'em from going to work.

PRACTICE.

"Would you like to hold the baby?" said the nurse to Grandma Brown.
And, oh, the nurse was pretty in her spotless cap and gown! But when Grandma took our darling and began to fondle it.
The nurse in indignation screamed: "A kiss we don't permit!"
"I merely pressed my cheek to hers," said Grandma Brown in rage.

The nurse's voice was icy as she answered: "Be your age! Who knows what germ diseases now are lurking on your cheek?"

Which made Grandma Brown so angry that she couldn't even speak.

When Grandma squeezed the baby's foot, the nurse began once more:

"The baby can't be handled. Now I told you that before!"

And then she snatched her from her arms and grandma's cheeks grew red.

Nor would it now be nice to tell what Grandma thought or said.

"I wonder," Grandma later said indignantly to me:

"Just how they think I managed to bring up my babies! I kissed them and I rocked them and I fondled night and day, and I'll do the same thing over when that nurse is sent away."

OCEAN GATEWAYS

The question arises whether one nation has a right—divine, legal or moral to control a great international seaway. The Suez Canal is the ocean gate from Europe to the East. It controls the most direct route from western Europe and the Mediterranean area to India, China, Japan and the East Indies, and vice versa, as well as the route from Europe to East Africa. One little set of locks might determine the fortunes of half a world commercially and militarily.

Great Britain holds the key. The Suez Canal is technically not a public concern but a private business concern. Nevertheless all the world realizes, it is controlled by the British government as an arm of British commercial and military power. It has to be so, according to the British view, for it is the chief material link that binds the British Empire together. Without it Britain's hold on India would be precarious, and Australia and many a lesser possession or dependency would be far away and hard to defend.

Italy is in a mood to challenge such control. If Mussolini, trying to rebuild Imperial Rome, insists on an open sea road to Abyssinia, and if Britain insists on her established policy, there may be war over that little set of locks. If Britain should close them to Italy, Italian warships might fight to clear the way or Italian airships might blow them up. Then there would be a real war.

Even more may be involved than the route to Abyssinia and the Indies. Modern Italy bitterly resents the Mediterranean sea as a "British lake." She would like to drive Britain from that sea as she drove Carthage from it.

Destruction of Suez Canal would be a world calamity. That may be avoided. But we are likely to see a growing demand for the internationalization of that waterway possibly under the League of Nations. And the idea would spread to other important seaways, including the Panama Canal. That is where our big American interest lies in the present controversy.

PARADES.

An American newspaper man who spent several months in Europe this past spring and summer was depressed by the innumerable parades he saw. A good parade is ordinarily a favorite American spectacle, giving everybody a good time. The Russian, German, Italian, Lithuanian, Austrian and other parades this traveler witnessed were depressing because they were monotonous and stern. Mostly the paraders were soldiers, carrying fixed bayonets or rifles and bearing heavy packs on their backs. Even when the marchers were civilians or children, they had a warlike air and an abnormal earnestness about them. None of the marching individuals looked happy. When they sang, their songs had no joyous quality.

The traveler returned to his home city convinced

STARTING TO REAP THE HARVEST

"SOCIAL CREDIT"

Canada can no longer laugh at the States for economic vagaries. We often talk wildly over here, but usually lean toward sanity when it comes to action. A Canadian province, Alberta, has actually voted into power a party committed to a scheme as wild as either the Townsend pension plan or the share-the-wealth plan.

Just what William Abernethy and his Social Credit League are driving at, in terms of economic thought, is hard to grasp. Some of the explanations are so involved that it would take an Einstein to master them. The salient facts, however, seem fairly simple. Every adult man and woman is to have, as a starter, a pension of $25 a month.

This would require about $120,000,000 a year, a lot of money in a farm province. The voters approved the plan obviously because they wanted the money and hoped to get it. They don't seem to have asked where it would come from.

Where can it come from except one of two sources? Either from taxing the very people receiving it, or from printing presses.

Many call it "Socialism." That looks like a slander on Socialism, which means essentially everybody uniting to produce things and then dividing the product. This Alberta scheme seems to mean dividing wealth before you get it, and trusting in Providence to make good somehow.

The difference between a "ranch" and a "ranch," says the Prince of Wales, is that the former pays and the latter doesn't. Now that he's drilling for oil on his Canadian ranch, why not call it a wrench?

Another royal engagement in England, but the Prince of Wales holds out.

that he never wanted to see another parade—and found himself in the midst of marchers again, but with a great difference.

The parades on the home streets were voluntary. The marchers—delegates to a big convention—didn't have to take part unless they wanted to. The costumes were gay and varied. The bands were numerous and played lively tunes. There were "color, hilarity, jauntiness in the processions. Love of spectacle for its own sake was their animating impulse."

European parades are a war obsession. American parades are fun.

STORK SWEEPSTAKES.

As the great Toronto baby race nears its end, there are three mothers in the running, all going strong. It will be a great finish.

This is the competition popularly referred to by Canadians as the "great stork sweepstakes," created by the will of a Canadian sportsman who left $500,000 to go to the Toronto mother producing the most children in 10 years. There is one year yet to go.

The three leading mothers are surely as striking an example of fecundity as any opponent of race suicide could desire. Mrs. John Nagle, at the age of 30, is the proud mother of 10 children, all born since 1926. Mrs. Matthew Kenney, aged 32, has 16 children, of whom 10 also were born since the prize was offered. The third, Mrs. Grace Bagnato, at 42, is reported as the mother of 29 children, and although only nine have been born in these nine years, has strong hope of winning because of her talent for bearing twins.

The husband of the betting favorite, Mrs. Nagle, says they're going to buy a farm with the money, because "a farm would be the best place to keep so many children." It would, indeed. And farms should be provided somehow for the close competitors, too.

Any home, though, for such broods, would seem like a public institution. Maybe it's important for these families, and hundreds of others, to produce floods of children, though the sportsman-donor is suspected by friends of playing a post-mortem joke. Quality, many people now insist, is more important than quantity. It will be interesting to see what the winning families do for the world. Meanwhile Canada has plenty of room for them.

"Peace hath her victories." From the way Paraguay and Bolivia are rejoicing over demobilization, you might think they've both won the war instead of both losing it.

Some public men are beginning to think it's a mistake to invite advice from their constituents, because any voter whose advice is ignored gets sore.

All Contributions To Sun and Light Must Be Signed

The publishers of the Daily Sun and Semi-weekly Light continue to receive communications or write-ups of social events and other affairs in both the city and county that are left unsigned, or are merely signed "Reporter" or "Contributed." While most of these articles are well written and no doubt authentic and should have place in the columns of these papers, it is absolutely necessary that the publishers should know from whence they come.

All contributors of such articles are asked to sign their names—not for publication unless the writer so desires, but for protection to the publishers. In other words any articles appearing in the columns of these papers that are not written by the regular reporters or editors must be signed by the name of the writer, as above stated. If you do not wish your name published it will not be done but we must know from whence the articles come. Several articles have been discarded this week because no names were signed. —THE PUBLISHERS.

HE PLAYED WITH JESUS AS BOY; WROTE HARD-TIMES LETTER *

Personal Aspect of Career of James, The Brother of Jesus—His Work As Leader Of Jerusalem Church—His Epistle of Applied Religion.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

Hard sense for hard times— as fresh and practical as if born of our own troubled day—came from the pen of one who might be supposed to be content to dwell in the mystic glamour of his blood relationship to Jesus, the Saviour.

This man James, who will command the fresh attention of the millions of Sunday school folks this week, is not one of the popular figures of the New Testament. He had none of the pictorial qualities of Paul and Peter and John. Although he became head of the Church in Jerusalem, there are many other personalities of his time who have appeared more strongly to Christian imagination. James seems to have been an austere man, even as ascetic, a cold and unimaginative ecclesiastic. His one letter, the theme of present study, is devoted to the practicalities of Christian living; and it has extraordinary timeliness.

Was He Mary's Son? Reflected romance tinges every character once intimately associated with the great "He knew Lincoln" was a badge of distinction that lifted a commonplace man out of obscurity. How much greater the glamour that surrounded James, the brother of Jesus! He had belonged to the same family as the Lord; had dwelt under the same roof, shared the same domestic discipline; had played with Him in the streets of Nazareth and worked with Him in Joseph's carpenter shop. The two had grown up together—yet how far apart!

"You may grind their souls in the self-same mill,
You may bind them heart and brow;
But the poet will chase the rainbow still,
And his brother will follow the plough."

Throughout long centuries students of the Bible have dabbled with the theme of the relationship of Jesus and James. The record simply includes not an enumeration of the family, as a brother of our Lord. On its face, this would imply that he was the son of Joseph and Mary. Many have contended that brothers and sisters were children of Joseph by an earlier marriage. This would make clearer why the Saviour, on the cross, commended Mary to the care of John, rather than to one of her step-children. In either case, the same blood flowed through the veins of James that was shed on Calvary.

Alas, yet apart. Literal-minded and practical, James had no comprehension of the dreams and mission and real character of his brother. They were akin, yet apart. They roamed the hills of Nazareth together, but dwelt in different worlds. I know a cave in the face of one of the hills that girdle Nazareth, from which the whole town is in view, and I cannot but believe that it was a familiar resort of Jesus and the other lads clambering and exploring over the neighborhood. Probably the two went on long hiking trips to the Lake of Galilee; and term the "Tabor watched the sun set over the Mediterranean."

Nevertheless, James did not understand that his brother, his closest and familiar companion, was the long-promised Messiah. He did not believe on Him until after the crucifixion. We have no details of his conversion; we simply know that in the Early Church James soon appeared as the ranking official. He presided over the Council of Jerusalem, and was evidently held in peculiar esteem by the first Christians.

We may all understand, in the light of experience and observation, how local sentiment fails to recognize its own great ones. Jesus, dealing with His personal experience of Nazareth, reminded His family and neighbors that a prophet is without honor amidst his own. It is one price of greatness to be misunderstood. Jesus walked a solitary way to the end; and a portion of the cross that He bore on His heart was that those He loved best failed to comprehend Him. Had any of us been in James' favored place, we, too, should have been as dense as he.

A Message For The Times. There is no denying certain statesmanlike qualities to James, even though he lacked the ardor and glow and tender feeling of such disciples as John. He had a concern for the welfare of all the Church. His Epistle, written, probably, before the Council of Jerusalem, is addressed to the Jewish Christians scattered all over the world. James was a good shepherd, who remembered the wandering and lonely sheep. In this world view, James seems to have included us. His practical mind envisaged the problems, which, while timeless, come to a crisis at certain periods. Ours, too, is a time of testing for Christian faith, and an era when the church must guard herself sedulously against class favoritism. There is a bite and a sting to James' words about the distinction made between the rich and the poor. Some of his passages could earn him the label of "radical" in the eyes of certain groups today. We may read his pungent letter as if it were a bit of counsel formulated for the special needs of the present period. His advice is for Christians surrounded by the real conditions of everybody living, and not for those dwelling in the transports of religious ecstasy. His is the final word upon the relation between faith and works.

• The International Sunday School Lesson for September 22 is: "James: A Great Christian Leader."—Acts 15: 1-21; James, 1: 1-17.

In The Hour Of Trial. To treat great themes in small room is the hard lot of my Lessons; and space considerations simply prohibit a discussion of James' attitude toward class distinctions in the church, and of his biting words toward the type of faith that does not manifest itself in life and work. To the Christian who is not willing to follow through, this Epistle is rather discomfiting literature.

Two themes, however, are uppermost in the small section of the Letter assigned by the Lesson Committee for present study. One is trials and the other is the wisdom and faith which come by prayer.

At the outset, this sombre James strikes the joy note. "Count it all joy, my brethren, when ye fall into manifold temptations." Somebody has said that "Joy is the banner worn to show that the King is in residence." Anybody may be joyous when all conditions are favorable; it takes a Christian to meet the lions of tribulation with a song, as the early Christian martyrs entered the arena of death, singing. This is the hour of trial for untold millions of Christians. By the wholesale, in Germany, Mexico and Russia, they face such a testing as has not confronted the Christian Church for centuries. Every disciple of Jesus everywhere should have a burning heart over the plight of his fellow believers in these lands. And for multitudes of Christians in our own country, harassed and bewildered by existing economic and social conditions, this is an unprecedented hour of trial, of testing, of proving. Throughout all the friend of Christ is to count every such experience a source of joy!

Then comes the passage that has been a charter of intellectual liberty to many a young Christian—source of culture more potent, in many cases, than a college education—"If any of you lacketh wisdom, let him ask of God, who giveth to all liberally and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him." That key has unlocked countless minds. In these dark hours, which baffle the great and the learned, the Christian is shown a path of light. More wisdom may come from the prayer-closet than from the class room.

NEW TYPE PROGRAM FOR YPE UNION AT KERENS LAST NIGHT

A new type of program was carried out at the meeting of the Young People's Epworth Union Tuesday night, September 17, in Kerens.

Marvin Garrett of Roane was the leader for the devotional services, and the presidents of the various leagues present aided in the program. Various questions concerning the leagues, ways in which to increase attendance and social activities, getting the Leaguers to take parts on the programs, and several other questions were discussed, and each league gave their results on the ones that they had less trouble with.

Dr. C. R. Gray spoke a few words on the best type of leagues. One of his remarks was: "It takes young people deeply religious to make a league and the church. If there were not any young people there would be no church."

The following is an outline of the devotional services:

Song—"Dwelling In Beulah Land."

Song—"Can the World See Jesus in You?"

Scripture reading.

Prayer by Dr. C. R. Gray, presiding elder of the Corsicana district.

Talks on various troubles of the Leaguers, and the best remedies used in correcting the troubles.

Some remarks were made about the meet in Memphis, Tenn., during the Christmas holidays, and said the union send a delegate.

Song—"What A Friend."

Eleventh Avenue Methodist had the largest attendance with 24 present and Kerens was next with 20. The total attendance for the evening was 77.

As the entertainment feature, several groups gave stunts, and the old card stunt took first place. The stunts were followed by the serving of ice cold water-melons. All those present enjoyed the meeting thoroughly.

The next meeting will be held in October at the Eleventh Avenue Methodist church, and at this time Chaffield will furnish the devotional program. A council meeting of all the officers of the union and the Leaguers will be held 30 minutes before the meeting at Eleventh Avenue next month.

Cycling Back as Popular Sport

Cycling has returned as a sport. All over the country bike emporiums have been set up and bicycles rented to young men, girls in their teens and papa and mama. Types of bicycles used vary. Some ride the tandem, some the three-wheeler, some just regular bikes, while some still use the bike as a means of transportation, as a means of reducing, cycling is most effective. The chief difficulty in the return of the fad is finding a place to ride. Parks are used, but the pedestrian has the right of way and trouble often occurs. Some cities have arranged with their park boards for the construction of bicycle paths. For the first time in its history Atlantic City has set aside an eight-mile pathway along the boardwalk for the bike riders.

What Does Future Hold for Miss America 1935?

Once more scores of attractive young women from all parts of United States are gathering at Atlantic City to compete for the title of "Miss America 1935". History has proved that many of them face disillusionment and heartbreak. Even the winners are often losers. Hopeful of winning fame on the stage or in the movies, many try their luck on Broadway or in Hollywood, only to meet with disappointment and defeat. Few weeks pass but what the headlines carry the tragic tale of some beauty who has taken the easiest way out. Some of those who were selected to represent their home states and cities are shown above. What does the future hold for them?

Here's Ethiopia Tribal Chief

This picture will give you an idea of the way some of Haile Selassie's tribal chieftains dress. First of all, note that the dress gives the warrior courage for he wears a lion's mane fighting costume. Beautiful colors of the costume cannot be brought out here, but such is the appearance of the chieftains. While Ethiopia has modern warriors, these tribal fighting men have rallied to Ethiopia's cause.

New Deal in College Curricula

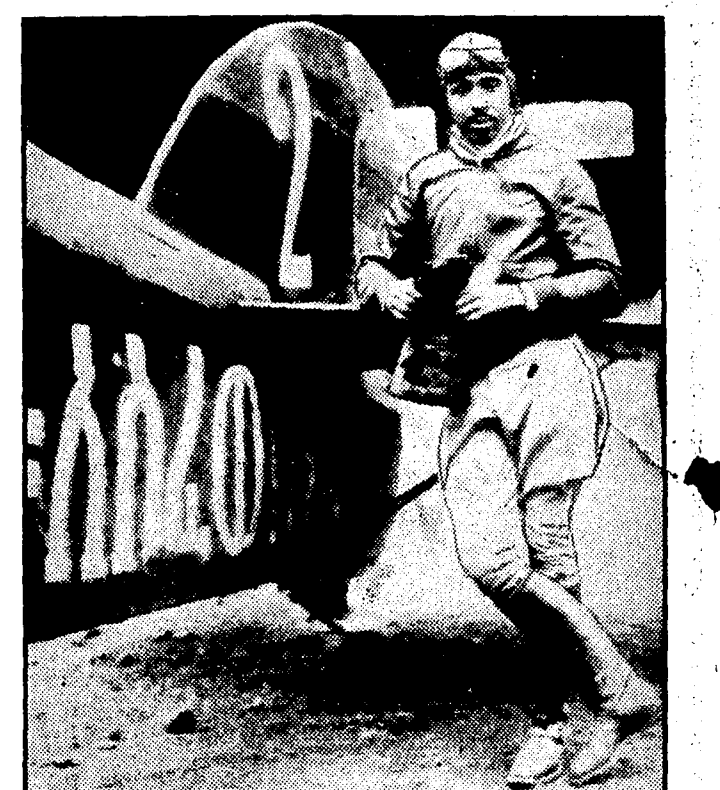

The collegian of the future will know more than his three R's and the classics. A new deal in education has begun. Instead of the natural sciences and humanities which were taught to the college man 300 years ago, more practical subjects make up college curricula today. The University of Wyoming has introduced a course in dude ranching. Demands for instruction in this field was insistent enough to urge the faculty to try it. Miami university in Ohio offers a course in marriage relations which is proving highly successful. Chicago is experimenting with a course in practical automobile driving for high school students. Even the Indians have a new deal. Instead of the three R's the Indian today is learning fertilization, soil erosion and sheep shearing.

WHEN he has your MONEY

The transient peddler who rings your front door bell---he's a stranger to you and you are not even a memory to him after he has unloaded his unknown, unbranded goods on you and left town with your money.

He has no further interest in your satisfaction, in your good will, in your future patronage. His is a one-time transaction.

This transient peddler is here today and gone tomorrow, and in most cases he will sell you seconds or inferior grade of merchandise. They pay no taxes of any kind, nor are they interested in your community.

But your local merchant considers your patronage as a trust. He takes your money, subject to your satisfaction. He knows he has to build up a steady, repeat patronage or he cannot continue in business.

He is very exacting in the merchandise he carries. It must come to him guaranteed so he can in turn guarantee it to you. He is jealous of his good reputation as a merchant and as a citizen---both depend upon his fair dealing---in giving good quality, in giving good values, in making good on unsatisfactory transactions. His sole interest is not in your purchase of today but in your continued good will and perpetual patronage.

And remember, your local merchants are paying the taxes to pay for the many public services that you and your home town are enjoying. They also assist in many other ways financially to help develop the community.

MAKING YOUR OWN THINGS.

MAKING COSMETICS
Send to Miss Forbes for formulas for making your own beauty things, and read what she tells you each day. She also tells you what NOT to use.

Those of you who take a delight in making your own clothes and hats, should extend your cleverness a n d make your own cosmetics as well. Indeed those of you who are not skilled enough to do home dress-making, e a n very easily learn how to make cosmetics at home. You can do it for yourself, you can soon make creams so delicious in looks and texture that your friends will like to get them as presents better than anything else you can give them. Suppose you say mysteriously that you have in your possession a formula for some extremely fine cream! A jar of cream so advertised would be worth $5 on any cosmetic counter! Think how pleased, your friends would be to have something like this for a gift.

I have a long list of formulas for these things, which I shall be glad to send you if you write me. Also, I have been printing, and shall go on doing so, formulas for other beauty preparations. Yesterday I said you could make a very good skin tonic by adding two tablespoonsful of grain alcohol to about 8 to 10 ounces of water. You should of course have some perfume to make it smell nice. A teaspoon of glycerine added will also be a good thing. Some of the skin tonics in the shops have glycerine, some have not, but the alcohol and water is what most of them are made of.

You can use ether to remove nail enamel, which is what the nurse in the hospitals do. Or you can buy acetone in the drug stores and for a few cents have enough either to last you years, or to divide among your friends. Face powder you must buy, also rouge, lipstick, nail enamel, and vanishing cream. But n a l l bleaches can be made at home, and if you substitute plain lemon juice, it is better than anything else. Or use peroxide of hydrogen, with a few drops of kitchen ammonia added. Cuticle creams are generally just vaseline, colored or with a fancy name and perfume. Use vaseline or oil.

W. K.—The yellow and brown stains that appear on the skin of some people, may be treated through diathermy, and they disappear in a very little time. Occasionally, the light yellow stains will bleach out of the skin when there have been frequent applications of baking soda. The juice from cucumbers is a simple skin bleach, to help rid one of a coat of tan.

W. N.—Most persons need to tone up their scalp occasionally, especially if they have been wearing hats a great deal of the time. Massage your scalp every evening very thoroughly, and shampoo it several times a week, try in every way to get the blood circulating fully throughout the scalp muscles. When possible avoid wearing a hat in the evening. The massage will increase the number of hairs that will drop out, but they would have come out anyway, as they either are dead hairs or have such weak roots they would not have remained in the scalp. The sooner such hairs come away, the better; provided a healthier condition is being built up, so new hair will appear. In a very little time, after the circulation has been improved in the scalp, there will be a new growth of hair all over the head.

K. D.—Foods that are heating; also all fats, are kept from the diet of a person with acne. In some cases, neither cream nor oil is permitted on the skin. The wise thing to do is to have a doctor who understands your case, and then do exactly what he tells you to do in everything including that of your diet.

MAJOR LEAGUER IS KILLED IN BATTLE IN PLANE TUESDAY

PILOTS HELD AFTER FATAL ENCOUNTER OVER CANA- DIAN TERRITORY

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—(AP)—A melodramatic fight in an airplane high over the Long Branch race track in the dark early today resulted in the death of Len Koenecke, 31, outfielder of the Brooklyn National league baseball team.

William Joseph Mulqueeny, who was piloting the plane, and Irwin Davis, his assistant, who said they killed Koenecke in self-preservation, were charged with manslaughter.

Mulqueeny and Davis were arraigned on the manslaughter charge in suburban Mimico police court. They were not asked to plead and were remanded until Friday morning, pending the outcome of the adjourned inquest which will be held Thursday night.

Davis and Koenecke were locked in a desperate battle, the fliers stated. Then, with the plane rocking, partly out of control, as the pilot fought to keep one hand on the controls, Mulqueeny struck Koenecke several blows on the head with a fire extinguisher.

Koenecke, sent home from St. Louis by the Dodgers, had chartered the plane at Detroit for a trip to Buffalo.

Mulqueeny gave this graphic story to the police:

"Accompanied by a friend, Irwin Davis, we left the Detroit airport about 10 p. m. for Buffalo. During the middle of the trip Koenecke became restless and started grabbing at the controls.

"As he was seated in the front seat, I advised him to get into the back seat and he did. Davis came to the front seat. Everything went on. K. had a short time. I took a look at the plane, which interfered with my flying. I asked Davis to get into the rear seat and try to quiet him. After about ten minutes he started fighting with Davis and there was quite a commotion."

"Davis yelled for help. I looked back and saw that Koenecke was fighting Davis. He then tried to get at me. Davis hit at Koenecke with a fire extinguisher. The latter knocked it out of his hand."

"Holding the controls in one hand, I picked up the extinguisher and hit at Koenecke but hit Davis. I then hit Koenecke two or three times with the extinguisher but he kept on fighting, so I hit him again."

"I circled two or three times and landed in a field. Some people, including the police, were soon on the field and after some little time we were taken to the police office."

A coroner's jury to inquire into the death was summoned by Coroner Warren Snyder. E. J. Murphy, K. C., conferred with Mulqueeny and Davis at the Islington jail, where they are held, before the coroner's jury was called. Charge was placed against them.

Murphy summoned a photographer to make pictures of Davis' injured arm. The airman said Koenecke bit him. Photographs also were made of Davis' torn and blood-stained coat.

In Koenecke's luggage was found a check for $650 from the Brooklyn baseball club. He also had an initialed traveling bag in which were found clothing bearing his name and a watch inscribed "Len Koenecke."

The coroner's inquest was set for 8 o'clock Thursday night at Islington.

"I had to come to a decision," Constable Wethered of the suburban New Toronto police quoted the pilot. "It was either a case of the three of us crashing or doing something to Koenecke."

"I watched my chance, grabbed the fire extinguisher and walloped him over the head."

Mulqueeny brought his ship down in a forced landing. The wheels of the plane were broken. When police arrived they found Koenecke dead, the pilot's assistant, Irwin Davis of Detroit, covered with blood and the pilot scarcely scorched.

Mulqueeny and Davis were held by New Toronto police on a charge of vagrancy. Police announced that the airman would appear in court for a preliminary hearing at Mimico, adjacent to New Toronto, and that other charges might be made.

The airman told Constable Wethered that Koenecke, sent home from St. Louis by the Dodgers yesterday to make way for fresh talent, appeared under great stress when they started their flight from Detroit to Buffalo, New York.

Constable Wethered said Mulqueeny told him Koenecke had been drinking, but was quiet for the first few minutes after the takeoff, sitting at the front of the plane with the pilot.

For no evident reason, Mulqueeny said, the baseball player then began to nudge him with his shoulder.

"I told him to cut it out, that I had no time to play," the pilot said. "But when he kept on the horseplay I told him to get into the back seat with Davis."

Koenecke began to poke him in the shoulder again.

Dallas Youth Is Killed, Trio Hurt In Missouri Wreck

WASHINGTON, Mo., Sept. 17.—(AP)—Samuel N. Freedman, about 21 years old, of Dallas, Texas, was killed and three companions from Dallas were injured when their automobile overturned southeast of here early today.

Walter Steward suffered a leg injury. Joe Stephens and Lawrence Martus were slightly cut and bruised.

The four, all of college age, were said to have been on their way to Cambridge, Mass., where they were to enroll in Harvard University.

Freedman was the son of Dr. S. M. Freedman.

DALLAS, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Samuel M. Freedman, Jr., 17, killed in an automobile crash near Washington, Mo., early today, was the son of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Freedman, prominent local residents.

Waldo Stewart, 18, who received a broken leg, is the son of Col. Harry Stewart. Lawrence Marcus, 18, son of Herbert Marcus, and Joe C. Stephens, Jr., son of Joe C. Stephens, will return here today, their parents said.

The network for the broadcast will be the Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting company.

The Ford Motor company paid $100,000 for the broadcasting rights, the same as last year, Commissioner Landis said.

Giant manager labeled him "a born minor leaguer."

In 1933 the Giants released him to Buffalo of the International League on loan. Back in the minors he fulfilled the McGraw prophecy and showed up so well that he was bought by the Brooklyn Dodgers.

His first season with the Dodgers—1934—was the highest of his baseball career.

He set his major league field record while batting .320.

This season, however, he hit another slump and proved of little use to the Dodgers.

The Dodgers' secretary said Koenecke had a wife who lived in Indianapolis.

Refused Passage in Liner.

DETROIT, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Officials of the American Airlines said today that Len Koenecke, Brooklyn outfielder killed in a mid-air flight, had chartered the private plane in which he was beaten fatally after they twice had refused him passage east on a regularly-scheduled airliner last night.

Koenecke and two pitchers for the Brooklyn National league club, Les Munns and Bobby Barr, arrived here about 5:30 p. m. Monday en route from St. Louis to New York.

The airline officials said Koenecke had created a disturbance in the plane, and that they refunded the balance of his fare and refused to let him continue the trip. He attempted to take a later plane, they said, and again was refused.

About 9 o'clock he inquired at the airport office about chartering a private plane, and was referred to William J. Mulqueeny. They took off about 9:30 o'clock.

GOVERNOR ALLRED SUBMITS OFFICERS PAY; BRAZOS BILL

NECESSARY CHANGE SOME EXISTING LAWS QUALIFY FOR FEDERAL FUNDS

AUSTIN, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Governor Allred today submitted to the legislature the subjects of compensating county officers on a salary basis and amending the Brazos river conservation act to conform to federal requirements.

A constitutional amendment was adopted August 25 abolishing the fee system of remunerating county and district officials in counties of 20,000 or more population.

Senator Tom Deberry has been working on an enabling act. Governor Allred said he had been advised by United States Senator Morris Shepard that for the Brazos river reclamation project to qualify for federal funds it would be necessary to amend existing laws as follows:

1. To permit tax division funds, which under the original act could be used only to discharge bonds payable to federal agencies, to be negotiable so they might be issuable to any other agency or holder.

2. To permit the net revenues of the district to be used to repay the loans from any agency, in addition to federal agencies.

3. To permit use of transient labor.

4. To permit the tax division in proportionately less amounts in case less than $20,000,000 federal funds asked should be allotted.

The governor said Senator Shepard stated the federal government would find more than enough smaller projects in Texas to utilize local relief labor and would use transients on the Brazos project.

Senator Shepard announced in Washington the works progress administration had approved a $20,500,000 program on the Brazos and that "all minor hurdles" preliminary to signature by the president and comptroller had been cleared.

Old Age Pensions.

The senate opened the question of old age pensions by adopting a resolution calling for a form of census of persons eligible under certain restrictions.

Senator Frank Rawlings of Fort Worth proposed that the state auditor prepare registration blanks and tabulate information to be gathered by county clerks by October 1.

Senator Ben G. Oneal of Wichita Falls said he did not charge the resolution was intended to kill pension legislation this session but that it would have that effect.

Rawlings contended it was a start toward keeping "the leeches off pension rolls."

Non-Submitted Bills Blocked.

Consideration of bills not submitted by the governor was blocked in the house when Representative Lon Olup of Carthage objected and was sustained by Speaker Coke Stevenson.

Olup's objection forced withdrawal of a bill to create the Gualalupe-Blanco rivers conservation and reclamation district and two bills to perfect organization of the Central Colorado River Authority.

The house passed the senate's bill appropriating $100,000 for expenses of the session after amendment.

Convict Stabs Woman Inmate to Death in Prison

STOUX FALLS, S. D., Sept. 17.—(AP)—Glenn Murray, 30, convict in the state penitentiary here, stabbed Florence Turner, 30, another inmate, to death on the stage of the prison chapel today with a pair of scissors.

"I did it because I loved her," he said. "I meant to kill myself too."

Murray and the Turner woman posing as husband and wife, were arrested after an oil station hold-up near Rapid City in 1933.

ing it to prohibit use of funds to construct elevators to senate offices.

Congressman Richard Kleburg of Corpus Christi made a short address after which the house adjourned until tomorrow.

Speedy Committee
Action Expected

AUSTIN, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Speedy committee action on liquor legislation was a prospect in the Texas legislature today.

The senate state affairs committee scheduled a hearing, 24 hours after its introduction yesterday, on a bill to license private dealers and permit sales by the drink under certain restrictions.

The house liquor committee planned to open hearings tomorrow.

Faced with a demand by Governor Allred to bar the open saloon by a clear cut definition, leaders of wet and dry factions sought a basis satisfactory to both sides.

Three bills to regulate liquor sales were before the house committee.

One would permit package sales by dealers under state license and authorize legitimate restaurants and dining rooms to dispense liquors by the drink. It was similar to the senate bill. Another proposed an absolute monopoly while a third provided for a monopoly over wholesale sales only.

Governor Allred completed his message on removal of district and county officers in the larger counties from a fee basis and worked on a message outlining his views and making recommendations on the old age pension. The governor was expected to submit revenue measures with the old age pension.
